

PSALM 148 vs 1

KJV-lite™ VERSES

This is another of the Hallelujah-psalms; Praise the Lord = Hallu YAH.

The song is one and indivisible. It seems almost impossible to expound it in detail, for a living poem is not to be dissected verse by verse. It is a song of nature and of grace. As a flash of lightning flames through space, and enwraps both heaven and earth in one vestment of glory, so the adoration of the Lord in this Psalm lights up all the universe and causes it to glow with a radiance of praise -- Charles Spurgeon.

This song begins in the heavens, sweeps downward to dragons and all the deep places, and then ascends again, till people near to YHWH take up the strain; a shared song of all citizens of heaven and earth. For its exposition the chief requisite is a heart on fire with reverent love to the Lord who is over all, who is blessed forever.

The Heavens above,

praise Him in the heights.

² Praise Him all His angels: Praise Him all His hosts.

³ Praise Him sun and moon: Praise Him, all stars of light.

⁴ Praise Him, O heaven of heavens, and O waters that are above the heavens.

⁵ Let them praise the name of the LORD: for He commanded, and they were created.

⁶ He also established them forever and ever: He decreed which will not pass.

The Earth below,

⁷ Praise the Lord from the earth, O dragons / in Hebrew, tanninim, translated the great creatures; it was not until our generation that we learned, dinosaurs existed in recorded history, they are not millions of years old; samples of their blood and DNA have dismissed their old age; the name dinosaur would not be in bible translations because it was only invented in the mid-1800s. This verse tells us the great dinosaurs played their part and bring praise to their Creator; even in the 21st century they are still bringing their Lord God praise as their bones cry out their massive greatness, how they suddenly appear in the biological record with not one antecedent found anywhere in all these years of costly search, while billions are spent worldwide in deceitful scheming, not scientific research, but to silence what is inconsistent with their relentless attempts to overthrow Biblical record, yet the massive dinosaurs did their part, they couldn't be washed away or hid any longer.

O dinosaurs, and all deep places:

We Came From Where?
