

PSALM 93 vs 1

KJV-lite™ VERSES

This brief Psalm is without title or name of author, but its subject is obvious enough, being stated in the very first line. The Psalm of Omnipotent Sovereignty: YHWH despite all opposition, reigns supreme. Possibly at the time this sacred ode was written, the nation was in danger from its enemies, and the hopes of the people of God were encouraged by remembering that the Lord was still King. What sweeter and surer consolation could they desire? -- Charles Spurgeon.

¹ The LORD reigns, He is clothed with majesty;

the LORD is clothed and girded Himself with strength:

the world is established, it cannot be moved.

² Your throne is established since then: You are from everlasting.

/ think about it: whatever opposition may arise, His throne is unmoved; He has reigned, He does reign and will reign forever and ever. Though You may just now appear in more conspicuous dominion, yet Yours is no upstart dominion. Like the angry seas of humanity, men have raged, but vain is their uproar.

³ The floods have lifted up, O LORD, the floods have lifted up their voice; the floods lift up their pounding waves.

⁴ More than the noise of many waters, yes, than the majestic waves of the sea; the LORD on high is mightier.

⁵ Your testimonies are very sure: holiness is the beauty of Your house, O LORD, forever.
